HERE'S LINERS THAT LIVE!

Hormones, Automatic Controls, Mist humidification, plastic film, electrical equipment, make up the formula of "LINERS THAT LIVE!"

The basic idea is rooting the cuttings in SOIL—in the ground—the way mother nature intended—then moving the greenhouse off the plants instead of moving the plants out of the greenhouse. They grow right where they rooted. Bigger stronger plants—Less trouble—Less expense—Savings passed on to you in lower priced liners!

Liners listed as bedgrown are grown where rooted—exposed to the elements and allowed to go dormant naturally. The field grown liners have overwintered in open beds and then before growth starts transplanted to the open field. Results—strong healthy—high quality plants in small sizes designed to be used as "Super Liners," mail order stock, or cash and carry items. You'll be pleased with the quality and the price.
